You Are Free to Choose Again ... With Love

It is from the heart that all good things issue forth. It is from the heart, purified of one thing...fear, contraction...through which the Father extends Himself. What freedom, then, awaits you. It is closer than the palms of your hands, waiting on your welcome, for you to close your petals around this great gift of perfect freedom in which fear holds no power. Perfect freedom, in which you look upon your brothers and sisters, and your Love for the Christ in them is so great, so overwhelmingly great, that you know that there's no place they can go and achieve separation from you; that your Love, the perfection of your desire to Love as your Creator loves you has become so grand and so great that it reaches out to embrace all – all of Creation. Every illusion, every hurt, every fear, every planet, every universe, every dimension, your Love is so grand that it embraces all things and knows – knows that separation is not possible – that death is unreal. And that only what God creates is true.

You are free. You are free now. You are free to live even this life that you seem to be having on your planet in such a state of knowledge. And that is what knowledge is. It has nothing to do with belief. It has nothing to do with hope. It has nothing to do with theology. It has nothing to do with spirituality. Those are words. Those are ideas. The grandest of ideas do but one thing: they point to that knowledge that transcends all ideas. The grandest of words that mankind has ever come up with – that can somehow signify that mystery, that truth, that knowledge – is Love. God is a four-letter word.

Love. The simplicity of making a decision to want Love, and learning that there is nowhere you can go to seek it. There is absolutely nothing you can do to bring Love to you. Nothing. No amount of accomplishment restores the Son to the Father. No amount of manipulation or seduction with the body brings Love to you. In truth, the body can never be used to get. It fails miserably. It can be used to give. And as you give, you do receive. As you give perfect Love, the remembrance of the perfect Love that you are is restored in your soul. Give you, therefore, without measure, without ceasing, and you will receive ceaselessly that which you truly desire.

Look, therefore, not outside of yourself, for the journey to the Kingdom takes you eternally within, ever deeper and ever deeper. Hold nothing back. Hold not one illusion back from the greatness of the Love that dwells within you as he heart and soul of your True Self. For God, who is but Love, is the essence of yourself. If you think for one moment that there's anything too grand in your experience for that One not to heal, please choose again.

Please Hear This Well, You Are Powerless to Usurp the Power and Freedom of Another!

Time can, indeed, be wasted. And all of you have known the experience of how much time can waste. And yet, given unto you time is that it might be used constructively, and there is no greater, more constructive use of time than to look within and bring Light and Love to anything yet dwelling within you that has been devoid of it. Nothing in your illusion is true. You have never sinned, and you have never failed. Never have you failed.

You have, in truth, hurt no one at any time, for nothing can come to any soul that it does not call unto itself out of its belief about what it is worth. Or out of its desire to learn. Although you are Christ – please hear this well – you are powerless to usurp the power and freedom of another.

And any drama that you may have been in, rest assured, it was by agreement. “You play Romeo; I’ll play Juliet.” “Okay.” “Excuse me, as we go into this incarnation, do I need to be what you call in your language the – the bad ass?” Hmm. “I had that role last time. Must I do it again?” To which your friend says, “Well, yes, I haven’t quite learned the lesson I went to learn. I just can’t get it. I want to really learn what it means to feel like I’m a victim.” And Love allows all things. Love is the willingness to show up in the way that can best serve the growth of another soul. And the wise teacher learns the language of the student. What is the language? Not the words, just the predilection – the patterns within the soul. The vibratory quality, if you will. And Love adapts itself endlessly and ceaselessly through you and as you, to serve one another.

That service may be nothing more than finally helping to get your brother or sister to the point where they’re sick and tired of what they’ve been trying to create – to do, to make, that is. You may be serving a function by being such the bad ass that it forces another to relinquish control of the soul and cry out for God. Surely, there must be another way, and I am determined to find it.

It Is Your Own Love of Self That Heals You

Have you ever noticed that when you really release your illusions, the other players in your drama seem to change? Have you noticed that? Suddenly, they seem much softer than they were before. There’s been no communication in the third-dimensional way, but it is because communication is ongoing, and it never ceases at the level of the soul. And each of every one of your moments – each and every one of your moments – is not unplanned by you. And you have heard it said, and it is a simple but very true analogy, you are the director of the play. You are the actors of the play. You are the scriptwriter, the choreographer, and you are the critic who writes the review. Oh, you know that role. So the next time you are critical of yourself, go ahead, be critical, and then appreciate yourself for doing it so well. Love yourself for judging and loathing yourself. It’s only Love that heals. How do you get out of the awful feeling that self-judgment brings? By loving yourself for being so capable of doing it so well.

Indeed, beloved friends, it is your own Love of Self that heals you. No one can do it for you, when no one has ever had the power to take your Self-love away from you. You have called certain players to yourself in order to give it away. And they have been your saviors. Self-love, then, indeed, is the doorway to wisdom divine. Bring Love, then, into each moment. Learn to cultivate your ability while yet you remain in this plane, to feel Love of Self prior to every breath and with each and every step. As you make your tea in the morning, love yourself for the very experience that you are creating.

You Cannot Know the Father Without Loving His Creation

Understand this well, desire is the root of all things. Without desire, you would not be in existence. For the Love that God is – desired to extend Itself eternally. And this eternity, voila, there you are. Wow! There is no other message. There is no other Truth. There is no magic whereby you can get it right. There is only the decision to Love. And yet the mind has been trained. “Oh, if I’m going to love, I’d better run out there into the world and find somebody to give the love to.” That’s not up to you! The only one you are required to give your love to is yourself. And as you choose to do so, your cup begins to overflow. And rest assured, that One that created you, who sees you choosing again to receive the Light that touches the heart of the flower that you are, looks upon you and is well pleased, and then says unto you, “By the way, I could use a little help. Would you love that one there. Oh, very good. Now, how about making a right-hand turn? There’s another one at the end of the next street.” And you show up wherever you are in the dimensions of Creation, to be the extension of Love, but only – only to the degree that you have allowed yourself to love yourself.

No amount of sacrifice, no amount of doing, no amount of anything, restores the Son to the Father but Self-love. I and my Father are One is an extremely powerful expression of Self-love. And your world will teach you that such Love is blasphemy against God. Your world would teach you and try to have you believe that such Love is arrogant and selfish. But that’s how God Loves you. And you cannot know the Father without loving His creation. No attempt has ever worked to restore your union with God while holding some small part of yourself away from your own Love. That is like tying weights around your ankles and then trying to jump to the moon. Even if you succeed in getting the feet and the weights up off the ground for one little moment of freedom – you know that crashing feeling? If you’re crashing at any moment, stop and ask only this question: “What within myself am I refusing to love in this moment?” Stop what you’re doing, discover what it is, and bring Love to it. You will feel the headache go away, the eyes clear up, the stuffy nose be fixed, if you will. You’ll feel your energy of your auric field be restored to perfect balance. Colors of the trees will be brighter. You’ll be returned to peace, for Love heals.

I Chose To Love My Father’s Child: Myself, Jeshua ben Joseph!

Self-love. You are Christ, and the one Being that some of you have yet refused to Love, through all of your practices of forgiveness, through all of your great community service and all of the rest – these are good things, by the way – when they flow out of the perfection of Self-love. For no one can bring peace to the planet who is not at peace within themselves. And no one can bring that Love that heals all things to the planet unless they have first loved themselves.

I was looked upon as a miracle-worker. I’m still looked upon as a great teacher. And yet I say unto you, all that has flowed forth, and will continue to flow forth without ceasing and without end, does so because I chose to love my Father’s child: myself, Jeshua ben Joseph. That’s all. I dared to receive the Truth and give it to myself. It was the height of perfect, divine selfishness, but that has made all the difference.

Nothing Else Works!

If you so desire and I say those words carefully for, rest assured, no one can desire for you – you are the one that must decide what you will desire above all things – what you will value above all things. And if you desire – and many of you have this experience anyway – I’m not telling you anything new; if you desire it, I am, indeed, available as your Friend and as your Brother. Not as your Savior, not as the first-born of the Father, sent out of the clouds to save all of you wretched fools that were somehow birthed from an unloving universe. No. But you are free to invite me to enter into the mind, into the depth of your own soul, and to help gently bring back to your conscious mind what is yet crying out for your Self-love. Do you see? I don’t bring it up so that I can reach in and get rid of it for you, that terrible thorn in your side. I merely bring it back to your consciousness, where you are free to choose again, with Love.

This means that your perfect Christedness is never outside of your reach. Love waits on your welcome. Ah, Love. God is Love, and when you open the petals of your heart to receive Self-love, you’ve said unto your Father, “Come forth and re-enter my soul. Make my being your dwelling place.” And you become the most high. And you are free. And you are awake. And you are one with God. And you have, indeed, completed the journey to the Kingdom and are living now the journey within it. You are free as the result of your decision to receive and love yourself. Nothing else works. Nothing else works. Everything else that can be used by the Holy Spirit will be used to gently move you in the direction of discovering the doorway to the Kingdom is Self-love. And then, and only then, will you love all of Creation, as your Father Loves you.

And often, the great pain, the great loneliness that you feel still within the heart – indeed at all times when you feel it – is the soul longing to Love as God Loves. That’s what you want. That’s what all of your seeking has been about: to Love as God Loves. For such Love is perfectly free. It will never happen, for you have the power to delay it indefinitely. It will never happen until you have turned to Love yourself. Let you be your priority. Learn, then, well, to Love the holy child of God that happens to be right where you are.

Well, then, once again, I have said something to you that is not new. What can be new? Illusions can appear new, but they’re merely the same old stuff playing out in a temporary, different form. Love is not new. Love simply is. I love you because I am eternally in love with myself. And I know that I am the first-born of the Father. And I know that you, too, are that One. And in our relationship, there can only be one who doesn’t know that. And it’s not me.

What You Think Is the Problem Is Merely a Lack of Self-love!

So in any moment that you think you lack, in any moment that you actually believe that God doesn’t support you, in any moment when you think that you are alone, any moment where you think you’re confused, simply ask, “What is it that I’m thinking about myself that Jeshua never thinks? Oh, now I remember.” And choose again. Stop what you’re doing. Don’t try to fix the problem. What you think is the problem is merely a lack of Self-love. That’s all.

Bring your attention back to Self. Wrap yourself in the petals of your own Love, for they have been warmed by the rays of Light descending from the mind of God. Those petals' warmth brought back in and wrapped around yourself will bring the soothing touch that you so desperately desire, and so often seek in the touch of another. It is truly only the Self-loving who can enjoy loving another, even in your physical dimension of what you call the groping of the bodies. Hm? Who can enjoy that, save that one that loves him or herself? And where can such communication find its perfection, save in the joining within Holy Relationship, where there is no trying to get – for there is no lack. There is only the celebration of God's beloved.

And then you merely get to romp for a while, trying to outdo one another in loving the beloved of God, without one thought of needing to get. This may sound sacrilegious, but I would say give it a try sometime. Or perhaps a holy hug will suffice for you.

So, it is then but a simple message of this hour. It is a message I never tire of giving. And I will continue to give it in whatever way I can, and to whatever mind will open itself to me. In whatever creative way I can reach across the gap that seems to exist in another mind, between itself and myself, between itself and God. For my desire is that the Son should be restored, and I will not cease until that moment occurs.

My offering to you is simply this: Would you, therefore, choose to join with me in healing the Sonship, by accepting that healing fully for yourself? In that moment, you are returned to an ancient beginning, and you become free to extend your treasure. Your cup will overflow in ways that you cannot comprehend, and the support of many brothers and sisters and friends unseen by physical eyes will be there to surround you, to uplift you, to carry you. And not one thing will be left in your pathway. That is how powerful Love is. You can be moving full steam ahead right at a brick wall, and where you rest in knowing that God is the Love, that you have one function to serve, that wall will vanish just before you reach it. And not one obstacle will be left for you to trip on, fall over.

Why Settle For a Crumb, When You Can Have the Whole Cake?

You cannot fail to accomplish what the Father gives unto you to do, and the only thing worth doing is what that One gives you. And what that One gives you is Love, that through you might be extended the good, the holy, and the beautiful. And what is that but a reflection of yourself? You are the good, you are the holy, and you are the beautiful.

You are, indeed, unlimited forever. And the greatest use of your perfect freedom is to embrace the place that you are, and bless it with the Love of Christ. Rest assured, if you need to be somewhere else in the next moment, Holy Spirit will let you know. The tickets will be given, the bags will be packed, the limousine will arrive, and you will not fail to be taken to the place where the Father asks you to go. And all will be provided, for you are Loved above all things.

And the Father's great joy is to extend unto the Son the whole of His Kingdom. Why settle for a crumb, when you can have the whole cake? When will you make the decision? When will you make the decision to Love yourself, that all things might come unto you? That through you they might pour forth to embrace all of Creation, and restore it to perfect union with God. Now is a very good time.

Love Yourself Wholly Just As You Are in Every Moment and Know That Love Lights Your Way!

Beloved friends, when truly you choose to embrace the fullness of your being, just as you think you are, with all of your perceived faults and limitations and past wrong choices, when you are in Truth willing to embrace all that you are, and to give it back to God and say, "Here, I never knew what to do with it anyway," beloved friend, when you are willing to extend the Love of Christ to yourself, you will find that you are already in the midst of the Kingdom. Love yourself wholly just as you are in every moment. Let not a single circumstance ever dictate to you a different choice. There is no other pathway that can bring you to the Kingdom, save the act of Self Love. I'm not talking about pumping up the ego. I'm talking about Self – with a capital "S" – Love, being that you are already the one that you would seek. And though the body would rise and pass away, you remain eternally.

Beloved friends, what is before you is the process of truly coming into that Love of your Self. Not much there for the mind to hang its hat on. No complex techniques. No recipe to follow. You've been following enough of those recipes. Time to taste the cake by loving your Self wholly and unconditionally.

Indeed, precious and ancient friends, is it not time to embrace yourself with that Love that you have held for me and for our Father? Give it to yourself and give it wholly.

Be you, therefore, at peace this day and always. Be you in perfect knowledge that Love Lights your way. Be you in perfect knowledge that I am but your Brother and your Friend, and I am, indeed, with you always, for I love you. And there's no gap.

Peace, then, be with you always. Amen.
